Highway Robbery in Mississippi—Jack the Hugger Gets in His Work in the Crescent City—Conductors Must Sue—The Khedive Poisoned.

HELENA, Mont., Jan. 12.—There is danger of trouble with the Tongue River Cheyennes, and Montana needs a governor. Governor Toole is in Washington. Lieutenant-Governor Richards, who was acting in his absence, left for California. This afternoon a dispatch was received at the governor's office from Brigadier-General Merritt at St. Paul, saying bloodshed was feared on Tongue River reservation. Stockmen near there accused a Cheyenne Indian named Wake Night of killing a heifer belonging to a citizen, and a request was made for his arrest. The Indian police refused to make the arrest, as other Cheyennes were acting in a threatening manner, refusing to let the accused go. The stockmen then appealed to the civil authorities, and Sheriff Jones of Custer county, declares he will make the arrest if it takes the whole population as posse.

Highway Robbing.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Jan. 12.—This section is wrought up over the frequency of highway robbery which has occurred during the past few months, and the "lone highwayman" is expected to appear from every dark spot along the highway. Near Hickory Saturday night J. B. Fanning, a well-to-do citizen, while returning from Decatur, situated thirty miles from the railroad, was held up at the point of Winchester in the hands of two men, while passing through a heavy woods after dark, and robbed of $800 in gold. An armed posse was formed and blood hounds put on the robbers' track, but as they took a direction where there is no telegraphic communication, nothing has been heard from them.

A Fortune Hid in the House.

DECATUR, Ill., Jan. 12.—John Higgs, son of Thomas Higgs, came to town and reported finding in the house $45,000 in cash. It was hid away by his father, Thomas Higgs, an old farmer, who died Wednesday in Long Creek township, this county. He has for many years been known as the stingiest man in the county. He made money on his farm of 120 acres, but never spent any and never put any of it into the bank. Since his death the family have been digging up the farm and searching the buildings for the old man's money. They found the pile in a box in the house. The old man bought forty acres of land some time ago and paid for it all in silver dollars that he had stored away.

Jack the Hugger.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 12.—Jack Pierre, a young white man appropriately dubbed "Jack the Hugger," is behind the bars. Pierre, has been creating intense excitement and indignation in the French part of town by hugging and kissing pretty girls on the street in broad daylight, choosing the daintiest and fairest French creoles of that district to display his affection upon. Parents were afraid to send their daughters to school for fear of this human monster.

Major Anderson of the Southern Pacific caught him in the act of hugging and kissing a well known young girl and had the villain arrested last evening after a hard struggle.

A Fortune For a Convict.

WICHITA, Kan., Jan. 12.—Under the will of a brother, who recently died in England, George Tankersley, a burglar in the state penitentiary, comes in for property over the water said to be worth upwards of $1,000,000. The news was received today by Mrs. Tankersley, who, since her husband's incarceration, has been largely dependent upon neighbors for support. The family was well to do at one time, but got into a financial trouble and finally Tankersley became a criminal. He had already served a short sentence in the penitentiary before being captured at his last job, for which he got ten years, nine of which have yet to run.

Must Sue for It.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A number of conductors, engineers and firemen of the Long Island railroad were discharged Saturday night. Engineers and firemen were given their full pay, but conductors notified that if they wanted their salaries they must sue for it. One discharged conductor says that a number of conductors were under suspicion of Encouraging Report of Southern Industries for the New Year.

The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, January 9, in reviewing the industrial progress of the South, says:

"It is too early in the new year to expect any very great activity in new enterprises, but notwithstanding this the past week shows a healthy growth with a decided tendency of capital to seek investments in the South more freely than for many months. Very large sales of Southern municipal securities have lately been made in the north and the west, and the outlook is promising for increased confidence in southern securities of all kinds. Active efforts for the building up of southern ports continue, and at Newport News additional shipping facilities are to be constructed; at Norfolk large piers, a machine shop and round house are to be built by the Norfolk and Western to accommodate increasing business there, while at Charleston extensive wharf property has been purchased by northern capitalists. At other ports the work of developing their foreign trade goes on steadily. In the industrial line there has been a fair amount of activity, and among the new enterprises reported for the week are a $250,000 coal mining company in Alabama with the full capital subscribed; a $500,000 coal mining company in West Virginia; a $150,000 car works company in Florida; a $25,000 brick company at Cedartown, Ga.; a $1,500,000 phosphate company in Florida; a $50,000 clothing company at Atlanta, Ga.; a $200,000 land improvement company at Fort Worth, Texas; a $200,000 hotel company at Dallas, Texas; a $1,000,000 loan and immigration company in South Carolina; a $50,000 kaolin company in South Carolina; a $50,000 improvement company at Dallas, Texas; three large tobacco factories at Louisville, Ky.; a $50,000 canal building company at New Orleans, La.; a $100,000 distillery company at Dallas, Texas; a $500,000 street car motor building company at Pensacola, Fla.; a $110,000 phosphate company in Florida; a $100,000 machine company at Baltimore, Md.
